Design Letters Melamine Kids Service: for the little design aficionados

Design Letters (Denmark) presents a collection of melamine tableware decorated with a typeface originally designed by the renowned Danish architect Arne Jacobsen in 1937.

Arne Jacobsen is well known for his simple architectural functionalism and many of the furnishings he created for his buildings have become contemporary design masterpieces. The Design Letters typeface was hand-drawn in 1937 for interior signage used in the Aarhus City Hall. The angular, vertical, precise font was radically new looking in pre-World War II years and still imbues the spirit of Nordic modernism today.
